“We were thrilled to get more than 700 ad submissions from over 50 utilities this year, particularly since everyone’s focus has been on dealing with issues related to the global pandemic,” says Sannie Sieper, director of marketing at E Source. “This year’s submissions were impressive, and it’s always fun to see how creative and innovative these marketing and advertising teams are.”

COVID-19 forced E Source to forgo its usual in-person awards luncheon at E Source Forum 2020. Instead, the company honored the winners during an online event on September 8, 2020, The winners of the 2020 E Source Utility Ad Awards Contest. The online format allowed E Source to feature many of the finalists, who were able to describe their winning campaigns in their own words.
